PLEBEIAN?—IMPOSSIBLE.

Only five or six years ago you were inclined to brag—were you not?—that you had never seen a moving picture show—well hardly ever, and you were careful, very careful, not to let dear little Doris or Reginald frequent the horrid moving picture places. Not that they were so pernicious, but frightfully ordinary. You wanted people to know that you were somewhat above that sort of thing.

And even now there are some very genteel ladies who look just a little confused when their neighbors see them making their way to the corner moving picture place, and they are reluctant in admitting that they are "fans" for this greatest of all modern entertainments.

But really you needn't be ashamed at all. Last night at Bar Harbor, you know, the very most exclusive of society's elect went en masse to the "movies." It was at the Bar Harbor Swimming Club, for the benefit of the Building of Arts, and included in the cast were such notables as Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

And not to be outdone by Bar Harbor, Newport is to have a select moving picture entertainment the first part of next month, with Secretary Garrison, Admiral Dewey, Gen. Leonard Wood and Dr. Lyman Abbot in the cast. Surely, when millionaires' widows, Cabinet members, generals and celebrated divines consent to pose for the reels, and when Ambassadors and capitalists, society belles and Newport and Bar Harbor swains take to the movies, you can no longer complain that they are too plebeian for you.

And speaking of the ways and wiles of society folk, you know there isn't a member of the set that chooses to regard itself as recherche, who would admit that publicity was pleasing. It is always under protest that the society leader consents to give a dinner list, the debutante's mamma has to be approached, oh, so diplomatically, before she will consent to allow Geraldine or Angelique's picture to be published. (Though, quite between ourselves, she always does consent eventually.)

Taking their word for it, we would have to believe that society folk are much averse to publicity. But just the other day we heard that Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Belmont are taking with them on their wedding trip a scrap book of huge dimensions. And in that scrap book are neatly pasted all the newspaper accounts of them from the time of the engagement that the clipping bureaus have been able to get together. And not long before that Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, whose husband was one of the victims of the Lusitania disaster, had spent a small fortune collecting all the available newspaper clippings that told of her husband's tragedy, and had presented these clippings mounted and bound exquisitely to one of our large Eastern universities.

Truly it would be gratifying if more society folk would come out with the admission that they, like the rest of humanity, enjoy the stimulation of being before the public eye.

A coffee and tobacco planter of our acquaintance is taking no little personal satisfaction in the current agitation for temperance in the use of alcohol and the suppression of the use of "dope." It's bad for the brewer and distiller, he admits, but it helps the man who deals in mild narcotics and stimulants.

You can't get away from the fact that in the modern scheme of things the men and women who are under mental strain crave some stimulant, some drug or narcotic. To have a diet entirely devoid of such drugs would be impossible. Even the fragrant strawberry, or the staff of life itself, they say, possesses some power of stimulation. You will have to admit it, the system really needs some such "boost," and to satisfy this need is not altogether a trait of modern life.

"What we want," says our planter friend, "is the stimulant that does not harm us enough to counteract its good effects. Apparently with most folk tea and coffee and tobacco taken in moderation come under this heading. The man or woman driven from drink and dope will turn to these milder 'boosts.'"

HOROSCOPE.

Wednesday, August 18, 1915.

Evil and good contend again this day. Mars, the Sun, Saturn, and Mercury are all in malefic aspect, while Jupiter and Neptune are friendly.

All the signs appear to give warning that the autumn will bring prosperity, which will be attended with the most extraordinary conditions, in which extreme rule. Foresight should lead to cautious management of financial affairs and efforts to safeguard life and property.

This should be a favorable day for whatever is concerned with the sea. Travel and commerce are well aspected.

It is held to be an unfortunate time for dealing with superiors in office, engineers, soldiers, editors and old persons in any place of power.

Jupiter gives fair promise of gain through transactions with merchants and bankers.

Woolen manufacturers or importers should benefit greatly in the next few months. They are subject to a rule indicating the most extraordinary profits.

There is a sign indicating a decoration or a high honor to be bestowed upon an American woman for generosity or service to the wounded soldiers of Europe.

This will be earned by some one of rare artistic gifts or by a girl who has enjoyed all the good gifts of life.

The death of an American financier of foreign birth is foreshadowed. The autumn will be a time of great mortality among the aged.

There is a way of the stars read as most interesting for those who offer public amusements of all sorts. It is predicted that the public will patronize whatever offers possible recreation more generously than in previous autumn, even though financial uncertainties will cause retrenchment in expenditures.

Schools and colleges are subject to inefficient government. The planets foretell increase in the number of students and unusual seriousness of purpose. A national movement will start in a westward direction.

Persons whose birthdate it is may experience much vexation through young persons. They should be fairly prosperous.

Children born on this day may have many ups and downs in life. These subjects of Leo are on the cusp and partake of Virgo characteristics.

THE LAST WORD IN GLOVES.

What might be called the last word in glove fashions has been spoken by one of Fifth Avenue's exclusive shops, and the fashion world is now trying to solve the problems as to just what constitutes extravagance in buying gloves.

Is $100 a pair too much to pay? Of course, there are cheaper ones that would have been considered very smart in former days, but now after a peep at the expensive novelties can we be happy with the others?

To most of us who will have to scrimp along contentedly with gloves that range from 50 cents to $15 a pair, however, a description of the unique newcomer may be of a little comfort.

In the first place the new gloves are of white lace kid in forty-two-button length, quite the longest on record, and little white silk cord, tied and finished at the top. This may or may not be laced and unlaced each time the glove is drawn on or off as it may be laced and left the right size if desired, says the Trenton Sunday Times.

The West Point gloves of black are trimmed with white pointed trimmings like the cadets' uniforms and instead of having buttons or snap catches like the ordinary gloves they fasten with crossed straps.

For the wear of ordinary persons who need a serviceable as well as a smart appearing glove the new washable kid gloves are recommended highly. They are long one-button model and may be washed right on the hand with cold soapy water applied with a clean sponge and dried off with a towel. This is done in just a few minutes. All the other washable gloves need a longer time for drying.

Chamois and deerskin are as popular as ever this year and always wash well, the chamois being especially serviceable if chosen carefully and made to order.

DAILY FASHION NOTE

One firm makes the chamois gloves to order at the same price at which they sell their stock gloves.

Among the cloth gloves for summer wear, which each year have gained in popularity, there is now included a so-called "reindeer," which is a wonderful fabric. It is cut in the same model as the expensive kid walking gloves with the sewed thumb and fits beautifully. It washes in cool, soapy water and wears most satisfactorily, selling at $1.

Silk gloves for the season follow all the winter fashions in models and trimmed styles, though the conservative woman will probably choose the black or white rather than the fancy and extreme styles in colors and make. Those who object to the feeling of silk gloves on the hands will find soft gray suede gloves in light weight to be the coolest gloves to wear. They wear well and require but little cleaning and go with almost any costume.

The woman who is clever with her needle and who owns some heirlooms in the shape of old-fashioned gloves may buy a pair of long white gloves and put the medallions in the wrist of the glove. These are new, and with the lace medallion gloves and those embroidered in gold and silver thread are in the $12 to $15 class.

Very smart are the Newport gloves. They are white with black stitching on the back with a gore starting on the outside from the wrist of black kid running the length of the gloves, widening out at the top, which is laced in with a little white silk cord, tied and finished at the top. This may or may not be laced and unlaced each time the glove is drawn on or off as it may be laced and left the right size if desired, says the Trenton Sunday Times.

HOUSE-WIVES' DAILY ECONOMY CALENDAR

French potato salad—Either beer or a light wine will go with this:

Boil white potatoes in their skins, putting them on in boiling water. When cool enough to handle, slice them and dress with salt, cayenne, a little vinegar and plenty of olive oil; a shaving of garlic, or onion juice will be an addition. Let the potatoes marinate in the dressing for an hour or more, then a little while before serving toast some red berries, remove skins and bones and break them up into slender splinters. Add these to the potatoes, stirring them in well.

Norwegian cabbage salad—An appetizer for other dishes of the Dutch supper sort this is without compare—that is, where the cabbage taste is liked. It goes with a beer drink.

Select a hard red cabbage, take off all loose and decayed leaves and shred it with a machine or sharp knife as finely as possible. Then drop the slaw into cold salted water for two hours. Drain dry and cover it with boiling water—not too much—and simmer until almost cooked. Drain off the water, add salt if needed, cayenne, sugar and caraway seeds, putting the last two between layers of the cabbage. Two tablespoonsful of sugar and two of the seeds will be needed. Then cover the cabbage with boiling cider vinegar and finish the cooking. This can be eaten hot or cold.

Beet and field salad—This delicious dainty is as decorative as it is good to eat, and the green used has quite a tonic influence on the system. Boil the beets with skins on in plain water until tender; drain them and set aside to chill. Then pick over the green leaves, removing all yellow ones and stems, wash in several cold waters and dry thoroughly in a colander in a cold place. When ready to prepare the salad cut the beets in thin slices and sprinkle them through the green, using a French dressing and tossing the vegetables thoroughly in it. This is an excellent food for roast meats or fowl.

BREAKFAST.
Prunes,
Cereal and Cream.
Corn Gems. Coffee.

LUNCHEON OR SUPPER.
Cold Ham,
Baked Bean Sandwiches,
Lemonade,
Cottage Friedling, Chocolate Sauce.

DINNER.
Chicken Soup,
Veal Cutlet with Mushrooms,
Baked Potatoes,
Lima Beans,
Walnut Salad,
Peach. Cream.

Omelet—Make an omelet and when done cut in pieces big enough for serving and dip each piece in a batter made of two eggs, a pint of milk, and flour to make a batter. Fry in deep fat.

Chocolate sauce—Chocolate sauce is a good one to serve with cottage pudding. To make it melt two squares of Baker's chocolate with a half a cupful of granulated sugar over hot water. Gradually add a cupful of boiling water and stir over the fire until smooth and thick. Then add half a teaspoonful of vanilla and serve hot.

August 18—Laura Gordon.

Laura de la Force Gordon, well-known journalist and orator of a generation ago, was born in Penn. in 1852. At 13 she was married to an officer in the Union army, but before that time she had gained some distinction as an orator and writer. After the end of the civil war she removed with her husband to California, where she soon became known for her powerful and stirring speeches. She was an agnostic, with a "leaning toward theosophy," and decidedly strong on the subject of women's rights. Her powers as an orator were soon recognized and she was employed to make public speeches in favor of the tariff.

In order to aid the cause of woman suffrage she consented repeatedly to run for office, to which she could not hope to be elected. In 1871 she was nominated to the office of delegate to the Constitutional convention, and polled a large return.

In 1879 after studying law she was admitted to the bar of California and was the second woman to receive permission to practice law before the Supreme Court of the United States. She was ready with her views on the woman's question at the time of the drafting of the new constitution of California, and it was she who secured the insertion of the following well-known clause: "No person shall on account of sex be disqualified from entering upon or pursuing any lawful business, vocation or profession."

WARNING TO USERS OF HAIR REMOVERS

Don't Experiment with So-Called Superfluous Hair Removers.

If you use a simple toilet preparation and it proves to be worthless, you only lose money. It is a very serious matter, however, when you use a doubtful hair remover, because it will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars and take months or the possibility of gain control of the growth after it has been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

It is a hard time to use pastes and rub-on preparations, which merely remove hair from the surface of the skin. To rob hair of its life sustaining force, you must deplete it by attacking it under the skin as well as on the skin. Nothing but De Miracle, the original liquid depilatory, can accomplish this result.

Imitations of De Miracle are as worthless as pastes and rub-on preparations, because they lack certain ingredients, which give it the power to rob the hair of its vitality. Remember, De Miracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package, which entitles you to your money if it fails.

Insist on the genuine De Miracle and you will get the original liquid hair remover. Others are worthless imitations—refuse them. De Miracle is sold in three sizes, 50c, $1.00, and $2.00 bottles. The larger sizes are the most economical for dermatologists and large users to buy. If your dealer will not supply you, order direct from us. The truth about the treatment of superfluous hair mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. De Miracle Chemical Co., Dept. 2, Park Av. and 129th St., New York.

All Babies Destined to Great Achievement

To be born is to be great. For there are possibilities in every tiny human infant. And for this reason, the mother should know that whatever is done to aid the baby's development, she is doing it for her own benefit, for the baby's health and for the future of the world.

Applied to the abdominal muscles, gently rubbed in by your own hand, guided by your own mind, it makes the muscles pliant, they expand quite naturally and the effect upon the nerves is such that they adjust themselves to the process of expansion so that pain from this source is almost eliminated. Women who use "Mother's Friend" refer to the absence of morning sickness. They are relieved of a great many minor distresses, all apprehensions disappear and these peculiar nervous "blanks" no longer disturb the night. It is well known "Mother's Friend" gets a little baby of any age, old or young, into a state of perfect calm and induces a deep, refreshing sleep.
